After recently reaching Hualien, the TKU Mobile Chemistry Lab continued to bedazzle local school children with its unique gull-wing door, its various shows and intriguing experiments. For over two years now, the Mobile Lab has delivered chemistry knowledge and “packaged” chemistry in a fun and exciting way in the hope of getting children from rural areas more interested in chemistry.

While in Hualien, the body responsible for the lab – the TKU Department of Chemistry – concluded an agreement with the Department of Education, Hualien County Government, to promote Chemistry education throughout Taiwan.

This will involve improving the results of student learning by enhancing the learning environment and equipment used at elementary and high schools around Taiwan.
