In order to encourage students in participating international cultural activities and raise the level of students' calligraphic ability, Tamkang University and its sister school Kyoto Tachibana Women' s University co-sponsor the "On-line Exhibition of Students' Calligraphic Works ". One can win 3,000 N.T. dollars if his or her work is selected. People who want to join this activity must hand over the work to Carrie Chang Fine Arts Center before Oct. 10th.

The rule of the activity is that every participant has to submit a work (size and content are not limited), which will be appraised later. And then, each university will choose 24 works. These works will be photographed and put on the page of both schools' websites. In order to enhance cultural exchange, the dialogue window will be set on the page. Students can converse mutually and understand more about each other.
