

OUTCOME OF RESEARCH AWARDS: 118 TEACHERS WIN NT$ 17,650,000

英文電子報

TKU provides research awards regulations to encourage academic research, which is divided into two categories. In the first category, teachers who apply with their papers that have been accepted by academic journals will be awarded handsomely once approved by the university: Professors NT$140,000, Associate Professors NT$120,000, Assistant Professors NT$100,000, and Lecturers NT$80,000. In the second category, after those personnel who have applied for the first category awards, they can choose three of their best papers which are collected from the four International A&HCI, SSCI, SCI, and EI indices to apply for the awards in this category. They will be further awarded with NT$30,000 per paper if it meets the university's criteria.

Consequently, the list of winners in 2003 academic year was announced recently. This year a total of 142 teachers applied for the first research category. Among them, 118 have been awarded. In the second category, 42 teachers applied with 84 research papers, resulting in 39 teachers with 81 pieces being awarded money. These 118 teachers collected NT$17,650,000 in total. A list of the award winners can be found below:
