

Marcus Bo - A Student on the Verge of Stardom

學校要聞

If you are a loyal fan of the hit TV show “Super Idol”, you’ll no doubt have heard of Marcus BO.

With his dark complexion, short curls and unique singing voice, it’s not difficult to see why Marcus stands out among his fellow contestants. Marcus is a third year TKU international student from Haiti who has now progressed to the final round of 8 in Super Idol. He explains “I started pursuing a career in singing when I was 18 thanks to the support of my ex-girlfriend.”

It was only just before starting university that Marcus realized he had a good singing voice. He began taking part in local Haiti singing competitions and dreamed of becoming famous.

Now, his dream is beginning to come true. Marcus is enjoying his initial taste of fame, but remains humble and thankful to those who have supported him along the way: “I’m especially grateful to my mom. Before each round of the competition, she calls all the way from Haiti to wish me luck.”