

A Series of Talks by Prominent BBC Interpreter, Carol Wei

學校要聞

The TKU Department of English has invited Carol Wei, the only Taiwanese national to serve as an interpreter at the BBC, to hold an eight-part series of lectures on the topic “English Interpreting”. Ms. Wei noted that “interpreting serves as a bridge between cultures, is integral in communication, and essential in the workplace. Interpreting courses not only vastly enhance students’ language-based ability, but also help to make one’s thought process more agile and give students confidence”. The first lecture will be held at the Tamsui Campus on April 11.