

Final Teaching Evaluations Launch — Students Invited to Participate for a Chance to Win AirPods 4

Campus focus

The Final Teaching Evaluation Survey for this semester is now underway! The Office of Quality Assurance and Audit is conducting a questionnaire survey on teaching performance. From now until 1:00 p.m. on January 9, 2026, students may access the evaluation via the Teaching Evaluation Survey system (<https://tas.in.tku.edu.tw/>) or by scanning the QR code with a mobile device. After the responses are compiled and summarized, the results will be provided to course instructors as a reference for improving teaching quality (no student personal data will be disclosed).

In the previous semester, the average student response rate across colleges was 58.82%, with the College of Precision Healthcare achieving the highest average response rate at 77.13%, followed by the College of Artificial Innovative Intelligence at 73.40%. To encourage participation, students who complete all questionnaires (including the Learning in University Course Questionnaire) will be eligible for a computer-based random draw, with prizes including 50 awards of NTD 200, as well as one AirPods 4, one SONY wireless noise-canceling headset, and one Fujifilm Instax camera. Students are warmly invited to participate online. (For further information, please visit the Office of Quality Assurance and Audit website: <http://www.qa.tku.edu.tw/main.php>)
